Major Hilditch also entered the "State of the Union" program, and in his address to the crowd he said that he would not object to any party being put forward to represent the people, but that every citizen should be given the opportunity to express his views on the subject before the members of the Fitzroy City Council. He said that he had been elected to the council, and that he would be glad to hear from the people on the subject of the proposed new council. "It is becoming more and more evident that the people are equally opposed to returning to the position of years ago according to the methods which prevailed in the proceedings of the so-called committee of 150."

THIRTY PRIESTS AT REQUIEM FOR WOMAN

Thirty priests from the different Boston parishes led to their altars in the sanctuary of St. Ignace church today for a requiem mass at 10 o'clock today for the funeral mass of Mrs. Mary Cronin of No. 123 Cambridge St. (Hearst) who died last night at the Rev. Patrick McCarthy, with the Rev. John J. Fitzgerald, officiating.

Assisted by a detail of twenty patrolmen from Station 15 under Sergeant Joseph Sullivan, the funeral cortege was led by John J. Fitzgerald of Station 15 of Charles St. who were conveyed today from the funeral home at No. 123 Hearst street, to the church of the Sacred Heart, East Boston.

PRESIDENT ZELAYA DEFENDS EXECUTION IN CABLE TO MR. HEARST

Copyright, 1909, by American Journal-Examiner.
Managua, Nicaragua, Nov. 27, 1909.
William Randolph Hearst, New York:
As proprietor of many daily newspapers of large circulation, I understand you are always willing to hear both sides of any momentous issue. I therefore, desire to explain to the American people through your impartial journals the grave motive of my government for executing the Americans, Cannon and Groce, to counteract the effect of intentional false reports given by the enemies of the government.
The revolutionists occupied a strong position at the mouth of the river San Juan with a view to block up the steamers conveying government troops. One mine was exploded near the Diamante, which had 500 soldiers on board.
Cannon and Groce were captured in the act and confessed voluntarily their guilt.
They were tried by court-martial, were given every legal privilege to introduce a simple defense, and sentence was pronounced according to military code.
Cannon had taken part in various revolutions since 1897. The government of Honduras pardoned him on the express condition that he would abstain in future from Central American civil troubles.
When Cannon and Groce were captured they were serving as officers with the revolutionists.
JOSE SANTOS ZELAYA,
President of Nicaragua.

This undoubtedly will result in the complete victory which has been predicted since the Nicaraguan crisis began. The American sailors who were held on the Atlantic and Pacific coasts of Nicaragua and already arrangements are complete for the landing at short notice of a heavy force of marines and bluecoats.
The American people should be aware of the situation of the waters about some of the principal harbors of Nicaragua. The dispatch of first class battleships smaller vessels have been sent under orders to move or to be ready to move against the coast.

DEATH FOR ALL FOREIGNERS WITH THE INSURGENTS

COLON, N. Y., Nov. 27.—President Zelaya of Nicaragua has ordered the execution of every foreigner captured among the revolutionists. This is the first time that such a decree has been issued by the government since the revolution broke out in 1908. It was reported today that General Chamorro, the chief of the revolutionists, had issued the order. It was stated that the order was issued in the name of the revolutionists and that it was intended to deter foreigners from taking part in the revolution. It was also stated that the order was issued in the name of the revolutionists and that it was intended to deter foreigners from taking part in the revolution.

evening in Boston and that he could throw no light whatever on the crime. The young man was questioned as to his movements subsequent to the tragedy, but his replies were kept from reaching the outside of the secret inquiry room.

Accompanying Mrs. Glover was Samuel D. Elmore, who was counsel for Mrs. Glover's husband and who has been acting as the widow's attorney since the tragedy. They reached the court in an automobile. It was driven by Louis Burnham, a friend of the Glover family. It was Burnham's car that was found in Glover's automobile on the night of the tragedy when the machine was found not far from the laundry, abandoned. Burnham had loaned the car to Glover.

The autopsy began in the library of the court at 10 o'clock. Judge John T. Rice presided. The public was excluded and the witnesses were admitted one at a time. While the inquiry was in progress the witnesses, numbering about a score, were kept in the court room from group to group.

Connors First Witness.
Before the hearing began word reached Wallcott that Antonio Le Blanc, uncle of Mrs. Glover, who was said to be in the West, had been found by officers in Boston, and that he was subpoenaed to the inquiry. He is considered another of the important witnesses in the case.

The first witness called was Thomas F. Connors, who was positioned at the head of the front of the house of Mr. Nicholas W. Connors on Saturday night when he saw Glover staggering to the steps of the house's door. Connors helped him into the house. He asked Glover what shot him and Glover said he was shot by a woman. Connors was questioned closely as to the scene of the tragedy, and he was perfectly honest but growing weak from the loss of blood. He was taken into the house and attended by several doctors, and did not die for three hours.

Doctors' Attorney Haggis. Connors was held to hold the inquest at once and get all the facts under way in the inquiry, and that he was not to be disturbed until the inquest was held.

SILENCE OF ACCUSED GIRL BAKES EFFORTS TO UNRAVEL MYSTERY

By JOHN M'MAHON.

Hattie Le Blanc, the pretty French housemaid accused by the State of the murder of Clarence F. Glover, is today, as the night of the shooting, the central figure in the greatest of all New England murder mysteries.

State detectives probing the case believe that she is sheltering somebody. And a lawyer, who claims that he has seen her doing their utmost to hinder down the story said by the first light servant.

As the case was made the earlier have only enough evidence to hold Hattie Le Blanc until she has seen a formal hearing.

She has not yet had her story to the jury. Although subjected to a four-hour examination by the grand jury, the household never once varied from her story that she had been employed by the family.

Will Girl Tell All?
The police have and their opportunity as far as Hattie Le Blanc is concerned. They have succeeded in putting her in jail to await a formal hearing on the charge of murder. But up to date they have failed to obtain positive evidence that she has not killed the second victim, the French maid, and nothing has been said.

Of the information which has been given by the State's attorneys, it is said that the police, in their investigation, have been particularly interested in the girl's story, and that they are now working to get her to tell all.

Motive Missing.
Whatever the motive, Hattie Le Blanc has not yet told her story. The date of the hearing in the Walworth County Court, where she is now being held, is not yet known. The State attorneys are now waiting for the opportunity to bring her to court.

What has been the motive to kill the French maid? The police are now working to get her to tell all. The police are now working to get her to tell all. The police are now working to get her to tell all.

Police Act at Bay.
There has been considerable talk about the police in the case, and a success in the young lady's hands. The up to date the police have been absolutely unable to get her to tell all. The police are now working to get her to tell all.

JOHNSON'S BOB MOVE
HURTS MURPHY'S
TO DEPOSE HEYDLE

Bob Johnson, president of the American League, announced today that in case John M. Ward is elected president of the National League, he would resign to serve on the National Committee. This action threw a bombshell into the camp of Charles W. Murphy, president of the Chicago Cubs, who has been having heavy and earth to depose John Heydler and elect Ward president of the National League.

"Just say for me that the American League will refuse to serve on the national committee if John M. Ward is elected president of the National League," declared Johnson.

"What is more the American League is opposed to syndicate baseball in the National League and we will endeavor to drive Charles Murphy from the game," Johnson said.

Johnson said he would not stand for any one to monopolize the game and of the game, simply for the franchise return. That was and can be in the whole world.

Mr. Johnson made these statements in the Hotel Haystack, Cincinnati, August 1.

NO SUBSTITUTE SURPRISES
FOR THE SPOT
SAYS HEYDLE

John Heydler, president of the National League, is not worrying over the fact which is being sought for his wife, for he is actually taking his Washington friends, that he doesn't know what the outcome of the fight will be, and that he will not be surprised by the decision of the club owners.

"It is the office of the league president," said Heydler, "and the job of the president is to see that the league is not for to take any part in that out of it. I could not make a prediction of any kind, because, I say, I am not for the league with the situation."

Speaking on subjects of baseball in general, Heydler, discussing the situation with the press, said:

"The league has to see some way to a necessary end," said he. "I have some idea of a number of substitutes, but I don't know what the outcome of the fight will be, and that he will not be surprised by the decision of the club owners."

Heydler said he would not stand for any one to monopolize the game and of the game, simply for the franchise return. That was and can be in the whole world.

JEFFRIES SHOULD GET
FAST PARTNER TO BOX

By HARRY TUTHILL,
(Trainer of Champions of the Ring and Diamond.)

Jeffries must improve a lot if he expects to whip Johnson. Anyone who knows Jeffries and who looks at the picture of Johnson's fight with Ketchel will admit that.

At the time Jeffries and Berger gave their exhibition bout down east last Spring at Jeffries' corner, I know what would be in it at that time and I know the much but will be in future to become as good as he can under the conditions.

In Johnson, Jeffries will find a man experienced, a clever boxer, and a powerful fighter.

Johnson Better Today.

I have Johnson from age and saw him last, but in his fight with Ketchel he was not so good as he was a few years ago. He showed that he had a great deal of power, but he was not so good as he was a few years ago.

While the Tigers were in San Antonio last night, I saw the morning edition of the Johnson-Harvey fight. I think that Johnson showed better in his battle with Ketchel than in the fight which was his worst defeat.

Jeffries gave Johnson a better argument than he gave Ketchel. He was not so good as he was a few years ago.

Jeffries gave Johnson a better argument than he gave Ketchel. He was not so good as he was a few years ago.

JEFF FIGHT
BIDDERS
BE ARRESTED

NEW YORK, Nov. 27.—Police Commissioner Baker announced today that if an attempt was made to pull off a Madison Square Garden match advertised opening of sports for the purpose of opening the door for the Jeffries-Johnson fight, he would arrest every man taking part in the fight.

"The gathering is not for December 1," said Commissioner Baker, "it is clearly stated in the Madison Square Garden advertisement that the fight is for the purpose of opening the door for the Jeffries-Johnson fight. I will not allow any man to take part in the fight for the purpose of opening the door for the Jeffries-Johnson fight."

Between five men—three Westerners and two Easterners—the choice of a referee for the Jeffries-Johnson fight. With the day of the opening of the fight four days off, this phase of the big affair today was one of the most important sports news.

Three San Francisco—Jack Welch, Billy Roche and Eddie Timney—and Tim Roche of Oakland, Pa., and Charles White of New York are regarded as the material from which the referee will be chosen.

James W. Coffey, the San Francisco referee, was named as the referee for the Jeffries-Johnson fight. He is a former prizefighter and is well known in the sport.

Johnson would probably accept Welch, while Roche would accept Timney. The referee will be chosen from among the three.

HEYDLE AT MURPHY'S MERCY
AFTER SALE OF PHILLIES

As predicted in yesterday's AMERICAN, the Philadelphia Nationals have changed ownership. The team was sold after the first game, and the deal which was made in the market for weeks was brought to a sudden conclusion.

Charles W. Murphy of the Chicago Cubs is at the head of the syndicate that purchased the team. He was also the owner of the syndicate that purchased the team.

John F. Heydler, owner of the team, was also a member of the syndicate that purchased the team.

"DON PASQUALE" AND "CAVALIERIA" PROVE BIG OPERA SUCCESS

"DON PASQUALE."
In Italian. Operas in Three Acts by Donizetti.

"CAVALIERIA RUSTICANA."
In Italian. Operas in One Act by Mascagni.

By ARTHUR DE GUICHARD.
The double bill consisting of "Don Pasquale" and "Cavalleria Rusticana" by Mascagni was given at the Boston Opera House last evening before a full house, was that an artistic enterprise should be a success.

It would have been still better perhaps had the one act operas, "Cavalleria" been given first and succeeded by the two act opera "Don Pasquale" so that after harvesting one's soul with the rapid running tragedy the audience might be disenchanted with the memory of a good thing.

Nevertheless we are thankful for the fact that the good things are still to be had. It would have been still better perhaps had the one act operas, "Cavalleria" been given first and succeeded by the two act opera "Don Pasquale" so that after harvesting one's soul with the rapid running tragedy the audience might be disenchanted with the memory of a good thing.

Donizetti's Rapid Victory.
Cavalleria Rusticana, which was introduced in the years 1902 and 1904, followed by "Don Pasquale" in 1905, and "Cavalleria Rusticana" in 1906, was given at the Boston Opera House last evening before a full house, was that an artistic enterprise should be a success.

Three Operas in One Year.
The audience with which "Don Pasquale" was introduced in the years 1902 and 1904, followed by "Don Pasquale" in 1905, and "Cavalleria Rusticana" in 1906, was given at the Boston Opera House last evening before a full house, was that an artistic enterprise should be a success.

Spirited and Harmless Fun.
The "Don Pasquale" was composed for the Italian opera in Paris, and it is a view to the voices and talents of the artist, Tamberini and Luchini, a most wonderful, quiet, and serious opera.

Society Stars Shy at Opera.
By ELIZABETH ELLIOTT.
Recently don't seem to like to go to the opera for grand opera, and last night most of the society stars were friends of the opera rather than the opera themselves.

It was practically an entirely different audience, and I am wondering if the audience and society of the opera are ending their night's work too much to devote to opera.

It may be that on account of the giving money remained over at country and for the week-end, but it is a pity that the past few days have been too strenuous and they were simply taking a night off.

At any rate there were no few of the elite on parade last night that collected in a row of seats and looking rather than the opera themselves.

RED CROSS CHRISTMAS STAMP JUST ISSUED AND ON SALE TO-DAY

Good morning! Have you bought any Red Cross stamps?

The new 1915 Christmas stamps of the American Red Cross are on sale to Boston today. They cost a mere 10 cents, but make the making of using them merely a postage stamp. They will not carry cash. But they can be used in any kind of mail matter without objection.

The Red Cross stamps are to help fight tuberculosis. The Red Cross has received many orders for these Christmas stamps will have to be issued. Of this number 10,000,000 have already been sent out from Washington.

Eight per cent of the proceeds of the Red Cross stamp sale will be distributed among the several States and other agencies making a fight against tuberculosis. Twenty per cent of the proceeds will be paid into the Red Cross treasury as a fund from which the stamps are sold.

For the special work for the Red Cross stamps, which is being done in the city, this year every penny you give for Red Cross stamps will be put to good use.

The stamps are pretty and make a good decorative item on letters and holiday packages. The design of the stamps is a Red Cross emblem, with the words "AMERICAN RED CROSS" and "1915" and "HAPPY CHRISTMAS" and "NEW YEAR".

Do you get the Red Cross stamps? The stamps are on sale in all the stores and newsstands in the city. They are also on sale at the Red Cross headquarters, 100 State street, Boston.

Two stamps are being sold for the purpose of raising money for the Red Cross. The stamps are being sold for the purpose of raising money for the Red Cross.

THERE IS ONE BORN EVERY MINUTE

The Baby That Cried and the Baby That Didn't

The Mother of the First Baby Had Real Cause for Thanksgiving

Copyright, 1909, by American Journal Company

It was on a suburban train running out of the city. A mother with her family, two half-grown children and a baby, were on the way, apparently, to spend Thanksgiving Day with friends and relatives in the country.

The baby was cross and fretful. The motion of the car irritated him. The conductor frightened him, the other passengers, jingling keys foolishly to distract his attention, annoyed him.

He was perhaps ten months old, and a baby of ten months has a magnificently developed voice.

This baby knew what his voice was for, and he used it. From one end of the car to the other he could be heard, howling an indignant protest against taking a journey he did not want to take, and undergoing privations without being consulted.

The mother, terribly worried by the indignant frowns of the other passengers, fumed and worried. She offered the baby his bottle, but he batted it away with a tiny pink hand and yelled louder than ever.

Being a careful mother, she examined his clothing for possible loose pins, but she didn't find any.

The woman in the seat ahead of her turned and rudely stared, first at her and then at the purple-faced baby.

A crusty old man in the seat behind said to his companion:

"Why in thunder do people travel with babies? If they cannot afford nurses they ought to stay at home."

More sympathetic people strolled past and offered the mother advice and made faces for the baby to admire. But the baby did not admire them. He merely expressed eloquently, though without articulate words, his contempt and disgust.

Presently the mother, driven nearly frantic, turned to a woman across the aisle and said:

"I wish to goodness he wouldn't cry. I'd give anything in the world if he'd only keep quiet for a week, absolutely quiet."

Now, this was a healthy baby, dressed in frills and ribbons, his little feet in brand-new, soft, red shoes, and his distorted face framed in a circle of fluffy white fur.

And because he was healthy and well fed, and protected against disease, his voice was of the justest kind.

Fearing it is not surprising that his mother wished she might not hear his voice for another week, but—

Thanksgiving afternoon a party of men went among the tenement houses to distribute some small gifts to the tenants.

They were poor, squalid tenement houses. On every floor were dozens of babies, but there was no crying.

In one little room a mother sat beside a little, dirty bed—a mattress placed on two upended cracker boxes.

On the bed was a baby—also ten months old, but with no shoes whatever, and clothed in a few dingy garments that had served several other babies before him.

The baby was very white and very still. On each cheek was a red spot, showing that a fever was pumping his blood to an abnormal pressure. His eyes were large and blue and wide open.

The mother turned to the visitors and tried to smile. Then she looked back at the patient, quiet baby.

"If he would only just cry," she said. "It seems to me I would give my life to hear him cry just a little."

There is something to remember, you mothers who lose your patience when your babies cry. Think of those other babies in the tenements who do not cry, either because they have not the strength or because they have learned that not even a baby's needs can be satisfied because of his crying for them when there is nothing in the house to satisfy them.

Healthy babies MUST cry. Crying not only develops their lungs, but it is their only means of telling their mothers that there is something the matter or that they are dissatisfied and unhappy.

And no baby is dissatisfied or unhappy who is well fed and well cared for.

When he cries you may be sure that he is sick or tired or that he feels that he is being trifled with.

Feed him well, keep him clean, clothe him warmly, and he will be content to play and coo as long as he keeps awake.

But when his stomach is empty or overfull, when pins are sticking in him, or his feet are cold, you may expect to hear his voice raised in loud and emphatic protest.

Be glad that you can hear it, you mothers whose nerves are "all frayed out" because the crying disturbs you—and you fathers who spend the night away from home because "you cannot bear to hear that baby howling all night."

Let the baby tell you by his crying that something is the matter, and, rather than scold and storm, and out what it is and make him easier and more comfortable.

Remember that there are many mothers, whose babies are now silent forever, who would give all that they have in the world could they hear those wailing baby voices come back to them across the year, and, taking the little creatures in their arms, try with all their motherly instinct to help them and make them happy again.

EDITORIAL POINTS

Crimes in society are due to dress, that an actress in five times as slow as Miss Sutton, the lawn tennis player. Yet, when Cain began his criminal career, we can't believe there was enough clothing to bother any one.

It's a stammering Winter. The Chinese On Long Tong publishes a list of members that have been expelled for non-payment of dues. Quite clublike is the Tong.

An actress has obtained a fifteen-minute divorce. This appears to show

One political writer says: "The ward chairman are holding off for the psychological moment." That's a new name for it.

A head of Martha Washington is to appear on the new postal cards. Obviously but surely the sterner sex gains recognition.

Momentous Issues in Standard Oil Case

By CHARLES FERGUSON

THE decision of the United States Circuit Court of Appeals in the Standard Oil Case will pass into history as the most significant event of the century up to date.

The decision is believed not only to have a momentous effect on the oil trust, but on all industrial and commercial combinations that have a monopoly of a business.

It should assure, among other things, the successful issue of the Government's antitrust law, and the control of the oil trust, and the control of the oil trust, and the control of the oil trust.

The American has steadily maintained that the Sherman law should be interpreted in the manner of its control and operation.

A Defense of Spooks

By WEX JONES

It is not that the public remains skeptical of spooks, despite the way in which a medium is now raising tables in the air. Of course, many a fastidious person has seen a table, and even his glass, float away when he didn't expect it. But even when he didn't expect it, he has remarked, the medium's feat of levitation is nothing to brag about.

More than bending their backs under tables to dance by spooks, the so-called mediums are now raising tables in the air. Of course, many a fastidious person has seen a table, and even his glass, float away when he didn't expect it.
